18.01 Review prepositions

A preposition is a word that provides additional information about the noun or pronoun to which it relates. For example: the book is on the table. (The preposition is on).

There are two basic types of prepositions.

1. Independent, or stand-alone, preposition. These are words that stand by themselves.

- Examples of independent, or stand-alone, prepositions:

עַל (on, upon), אֶל (to, for), תַּחַת (under), & אַחֲרַי (after)

2. Inseparable preposition. These prepositions cannot be separated from the word to which they are attached. Basic inseparable prepositions are בְּ (in, at, by); כְּ (like, as); & לְ (to, for).

- Examples of inseparable prepositions in a phrase:

in + a land = אֶרֶץ + בְּ → בְּאֶרֶץ

like + a king = מֶלֶךְ + כְּ → כְּמֶלֶךְ

to + Israel = יִשְׂרָאֵל + לְ → לְיִשְׂרָאֵל

like, as, similar to = כְּ

to, into, for, toward = לְ →

18.02 Introduce prepositions with definite articles

- When an inseparable preposition has a sheva under it, the preposition is translated as “in a,” “like a,” or “to a.”
- Do you remember how the article “the” is formed? We add a “hay,” with a “patach,” & a “dagesh” added to the following non-guttural consonant.
- What if you want to say “in the,” “like the,” or “to the”? This is accomplished by modifying the inseparable preposition by replacing the “sheva” with a “patach” and adding a “dagesh” to the following non-guttural consonant.

Prepositions with definite articles in Hebrew are somewhat like contractions in English.

In Hebrew, like in English, letters are dropped. In Hebrew, the “hay” from the article is dropped; however, the “patach” and the “dagesh” remain; they are added to the consonant from the preposition.

English example:

“is not” is shortened to “isn’t.”

Hebrew examples:

Example using “בְּ” (in, inside, at, by)

“In a Torah” (בְּתוֹרָה). “In the Torah” (בַּתוֹרָה)

Example using “כְּ” (like, as, similar to)

“Like a horse” (כְּסוּס). “Like the horse” (כַּסּוּס)

Example using “לְ” (to, for)

“To a king” (לְמֶלֶךְ). “To the king” (לַמֶּלֶךְ)

18.03 Adding prepositions and/or articles to nouns

Grammar-made-simple: adding article &/ or preposition to beginning of noun that does not begin with a guttural (א, ה, ו, ע, & sometimes א):

<sup>2</sup>noun + article: to add the article “the” (ה) to a noun: prefix the noun with hay, patach, & add a dagesh in following non-guttural consonant: (הַ)

<sup>3</sup>noun + preposition & article: the preposition & article merge into a single unit. (How? The consonant of the preposition remains; however, the patach and dagesh from the article are added to the consonant of the preposition.)
